OVERVIEW

Erin comes from a family of journalists and she's a born question-asker—a talent she brings to bear in depositions, thorny discovery disputes, and strategy determinations.

Erin has played a key role in many high-stakes cases, including representing a Fortune 500 company in a national class action lawsuit and being part of the team that won summary judgment—and the ensuing appeal—on behalf of two municipalities under a novel constitutional theory. Erin is also one of Greene Espel's lead investigators, where she single-handedly manages critical and sensitive workplace investigations.

Erin joined Greene Espel after clerking for Magistrate Judge Hildy Bowbeer of the U.S. District Court for the District of Minnesota. Erin has extensive knowledge of the court system in Minnesota and uses her clerkship experience as well as her exceptional writing abilities to assist clients in all stages of litigation.

Erin is also active in the community and works to advance the profession through industry leadership. She serves on the Board of Directors for the American Constitution Society Minneapolis-St. Paul Lawyer Chapter and on the Board of Directors for In the Heart of the Beast Puppet and Mask Theatre—a staple of south Minneapolis behind beloved community events like the MayDay Parade. Erin graduated from the University of Michigan Law School, where she was a recipient of the prestigious Darrow Scholarship. During law school, Erin was the Editor-in-Chief of the Michigan Journal of Gender & Law and a founding board member of the Gender Violence Project, a student organization addressing sexual violence.
