OVERVIEW

Mark has successfully tried multiple cases to verdict, before juries, arbitrators, and judges. He has been named one of the Top 100 Minnesota Super Lawyers and a Minnesota Attorney of the Year. He represents clients in cases involving enforcement of contractual, fiduciary, and tort duties; trade secrets, trademarks, and other intellectual property; professional liability; construction; cross-border business disputes; and related appeals.

Before becoming an attorney, Mark taught philosophy to undergraduates at Purdue University. He learned to explain complicated material in a clear, concise, and entertaining manner. He brings those skills to bear every time he represents a client in court or before an arbitration panel.
